

What is the difference between a state of emergency and a state of disaster?

Emergency: local effects managed with local resources. Examples: transport crashes, local floods, building collapses, etc.

Disaster: Local or regional effects, managed with local or regional resources. National resources may also be used, but damaging effects are not national.

